Loseby Plan

Sir.—A short time ago I reduced to writing a scheme of a line of advance in the matter, of the Hong Kong Constitution which seemed to me to be praticable and attainable.

Since then it has been steadily appearing by bits and bobs usually, however, without main features in the original scheme which alone made it attainable and practical politics. May I be allowed to outline it as I originally conceived and set it out explaining at the same time how, sin my view, it fits in with the present line of events and may helpthe consideration of them.

1. The Morse Landale Scheme involves the dissolution of the present legislature and the setting up of a new legislature. 2. A balanced legislature

3. If public opinion fairly unanimously supports the main outline of the scheme no delay need be anticipated.

4. I'll informed boggling on the other hand will mean insvitable delay. There is no reason with the new legislature should not be in being in wix months. The English Parliament: can be tenett upon to see in it a step

9. The first legislature (under the scheme) will be pledged in honour to a Municipal Council Scheine with a wide; electorate. No precedent would confine the electorate to British subjects. The setting up without delay of this body would not be problematical but a certainty. Social progress need not be impeded by the above consideration. 6. Any group with which happened to be associated, however, would fight its first election on something in addition much important, namely, a real Parliament with a Parliament House of Imagination can play on the prob- address of such retailers?

Landslides

Marking Carlotte

Sir.—The occurrence of landalides in the Colony has increased in tempo since the rainy senson began, About two weeks ago one and vesterday three convicts were killed at Stanley Jail because of or 10-ton slide of earth.

I might add that this type o killing by landslides although frequent, are passed by unnoticed and bring no public reaction or sentiment: I suppose that this is accepted as an "act of God." However it seems pertinent to point out that in no other parts of this world are slides allowed to occur without proper preventive measures being taken. The fact is that anybody who has any acquaintance with the nics" will know that landslides can be prevented, just as buildings can be prevented from collapsing and suspension bridges from breaking into two.

I wonder why this is not being done in the case of landslides and why these senseless killings are not stopped by proper government enlightened colony.

The news that Mr. A.V Alexander, Britain's Minister of Defence, is flying to Hong Kong is exceedingly interesting, and will give rise to considerable speculation. Whatever may be said officially, the visit to this small colony of a member of the Cabinet who is in constant communication with our military leaders all over the world is obviously the system of public labour significant.

Mr. Alexander is concerned with such matters as the defence of the United Kingdom (if such is possible in an atomic war), the Atlantic in Slovakia from his ancestoral Pact, our strength in the home. ### BUT SPLIT ON VETO

Paris, June 2. The Foreign Ministers' Council agreed in principle on Wednesday on revival of the Allied Kommandatura to govern Berlin.

But they split on a Western proposal to limit the veto in the four-power body, and so their first attempt to reach an understanding on ending East-West strife in the city was blocked.

OVER-POPULATION WORST PROBLEM OF JAPAN TODAY

New York, June 2. Over-population is described as "Japan's worst; if least publicised, problem" in an article appearing in the June issue of United Nations World Magazine,

The magazine, not an official publication of the .UN, headlines the article as "Japan's New Live Weapon." It says the problem of overpopulation overshadows, all the reforms of the occupation. V'ritten under a Tokyo dateline by Denis Worner, Reuters and Australian Associated Press correspondent, the article re-"In three years since the war, the Japanese have produced 7,500,000 children, more than 10 per cent of the 1945 population. "The figure is almost exactly equal to the total population of forgiving former enemies. "Experts at General Muc-Arthur's Research and Programme Division say they expect the population to reach 100,000,-000 by 1970; but that it could reach that figure within 12 years and, by 1970 at the current rate of increase, would total more than 100,000,000."

Two Solutions

The article says that overpopulation alone, of the multi tudinous problems that confront General MacArthur, has remained untouched,

It adds that while the Japanese are subject to heavy penalties if they retain too much corn to dry in their smoke filled houses, their contribution to the overpopulation of the country is entirely their own concern.

"Two possible solutionsemigration and birth controlappear obvious," said the article, but adds: "Neither, however, is acceptable."—Associated Press.

On the reported statement that Mr. Tom Clark, the American Attorney-General, said that the United States would now end its efforts to secure his extradition, Eisler said: "It is very nice of him that he does not do what he cannot. The matter was recently discussed with the Norwegian Foreign Minister, Dr. Halvard Lange, he added. The Lord Nuffield was arrested by a Norwegian protection vessel for allegedly fishing in waters reserved to Norwegian Ashing Interests, Mr. Mayhew said. The trawler was taken into Vardo and there released, pending proceedings this month in the Norwegian Vardo Court. This and similar incidents are the outcome of the Norwegian claims to exercise fishing rights in waters that Britain regards as the high seas, he added.

Mr. Mayhew said that the British Ambassador in Oslo had been instructed to protest strongly against the trawler's arrest. Britain reserved, full rights, including the right to claim compensation for losses incurred.

LONDON STOCKS

London, June 2. American stocks, influenced by sharp falls in Wall Street on Tues. day, led a general decline on the London market on Wednesday. Two-thirds of the 274 stocks listed by one London paper showed losses. General Motors and U.S. Steel led the downward parade. The decline carried along Government bonds and stocks of nationalised industries. - Associated

Investments

New York, June 2. The U.S. Treasury has the financial world guessing again and will probably fool most of the Investors, and commercial banks in particular, are hungry for Government bonds with a maturity of more than a couple of years. But the supply of such bonds available for purchase is getting smaller and smaller. .

Government, which is the main supplier to the market of such bonds, going to do about it?.

There are several reasons why there is a growing demand for Government obligations with a long maturity. And, according to present indications, the demand will become keener in the near

For one thing, bank loans to business, commerce and nariculture have been shrinking for months. The decline in such loans this year has been the steepest on record. That means that banks have money for investment, money which must be invested to make up for the loss of earnings caused by the drop in business loans. Another reason is that effective last month, the Federal Reserve Board ordered a reduction in the amount of cash reserves which banks are required to maintain has a kind of guarantee for their deposits. That order gave the banking system about $1,200,000, 000 in additional funds looking for investment.

Few Portents

There are few portents at present that bank loans to business will do any more than level off in the immediate future. There are, in fact, signs that this type of loan may contract still further as business and industry tighten at HK$14.20. their financial belt in an effort to cope with the possibility of lean days ahead this year. This means it is highly unlikely that commercial loans will make even a dent in the huge amounts of money available.

Where will this money go for Investment? A lot of bankers would like to know the answer to:that question-In the meantime, banks have been steadily adding medium and long-term Government bonds it their investment portfolios. And in the process, prices of these bonds have been pushed up to the highest levels of the year or

The entire question of Federa fiscal policy is further complicated by what appears to be the certainty that the Government in the not too distant future, will be forced to resort to deficit finuncing. Expenses exceed income —the result is government securities sales to make up the difference, or deficit financing.

What sums might be involved in deficit financing, when such operations might start or what torm they might take—all 'are virtually complete unknowns.-Associated Press.

As a result of the findings of the Appeals Board, Tam Ka-tsun's surpension will now be effective until the end of March 1950 and

He was, together with thu Tukswing, susplended by the Emergency Sub-Commutee at a meeting on April | 29, 1949, until Cetober, 1, 1950 The following is the finding of the Appent, Board: "We necept the clear evidence of the Referee and we dismiss the appeal.
